SAFETY CAMPAIGN STARTED BY ROTARY

Week of Sept. 17-24 To Be Devoted To Campaign To Improve Conditions

With President Homer W. Carpenter, who has been on his regular weekly meeting of the Rotary Club at the Glyndon Hotel was devoted chiefly to discussion and permanent arrangements being perfected for the "Safety Campaign" which will be inaugurated during the coming week. The committee of which Rotarian Z. T. Rice is Chairman, outlined to the session their plan of operation, which was unanimously adopted and the committee will proceed with their extensive program.

The chief result that is expected to be obtained from this campaign is the safety of the school children as well as pedestrians throughout the city, and among some of the plans of operation will be asking the City Council for a better parking arrangement for the numerous autos, placards placed in homes and stores and other conspicuous places asking for co-operation from every one, speakers to address all of the school classes directly after the new school year opening and other methods of publicity that will encourage safety and make Richmond a 100 per cent safe city for both the pedestrian and the automobile driver.

After the regular business session, President Carpenter introduced J. H. (Jack) Hutsell, of Winchester, who formerly traveled for the National Biscuit Co., making this city every week for ten years but now in business at Winchester. Mr. Hutsell delighted the meeting with several dialogue recitations, given in Jewish, Italian and Negro dialect. His wide range of imitations showed his cleverness in this particular line.

William C. Evans of the Madison Laundry was welcomed as a new member.

The public safety rules which the Rotarians will publish broadcast are as follows:

For Drivers

- 1—Keep within the speed limit. Don't be a law-breaker.
- 2—Look where you are going. Let others study the stars.
- 3—Turn corners slowly. You might meet the undertaker.
- 4—Signal before turning. It sometimes saves a life.
- 5—Signal before stopping. There's somebody behind.
- 6—Keep to the right side. Don't take the whole road.

Pedestrians

- 1—Look both ways before crossing the street. Wait until way is clear.
- 2—Do not play in the public street. They were made for other purposes.
- 3—Don't take chances on automobile drivers. They may be drunk or careless.
- 4—Educate your children in rules of public safety. It may save funeral expenses.
- 5—Remember the streets were made to drive in, not to walk in, except for stock.

The entries, it was stated, affected title to 9,000 acres of land in Scott county, Tennessee, which once was part of Kentucky. Discovery of the alleged irregularities came about through a suit of F. The land is located on the waters of Tellico Creek in the vicinity of Capuchin mountain.

Crisis in Mrs. Harding's Illness Seems Passed

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Sept. 12—Early visitors to the White House were given optimistic reports as to the condition of the President's wife. Secretary Weeks said she showed marked improvement over yesterday and that, barring a relapse, an operation would not be necessary. The first official bulletin issued said the crisis "seems to have been passed."

Members of the executive household described the bulletin as the "best news" from the patient's bedside since her condition became critical last week. It showed her temperature the nearest approach to normal since she became seriously ill. Immediately after the bulletin was issued there was noticeable lessening of the tension at the White House.

SHACKELFORD TAKES UP RENAKER CASE

In Charging Grand Jury At Winchester Which Will Probe Mysterious Murder

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 12—Specifically mentioning the murder of Leon Renaker as a matter for investigation, Judge V. R. Shackelford charged the Clark county grand jury Monday morning on the convening of circuit court to indict the accused men for trial if they believed that they were connected with the murder. The duty of the grand jury is not to try a case, the judge admonished in this connection, but to investigate and accuse. Declaring that the whole fabric of law enforcement depends upon the grand jury, Judge Shackelford told the grand jury that a criminal does not commit a crime without first considering his chance for escaping punishment and that there are no extenuating circumstances to lighten punishment when a crime has been committed.

The grand jury empaneled is composed of Houston Beall, foreman; H. Phelps Renick, E. R. Jones, Edward A. Thomas, E. C. Ramsey, J. T. Kennedy, J. W. Swope, K. P. Hadden, Asa H. Brock, C. D. Gray, Ellis R. Wade and Dan Luman.

Before the grand jury was empaneled Prof. J. B. Sibley, Professor of French and Director of Athletics at Kentucky Wesleyan College, was admitted to practice at the local bar. Professor Sibley received a law degree from the Jefferson School of Law in 1908 and was admitted to the Kentucky bar several years ago.

The following petit jurors were empaneled: Sid Amster, G. A. Haggard, Ben R. Owen, J. A. Osborne, Asa J. Ballard, R. A. T. Hils, Roy Flynn, J. S. Ponnell, Tilman Shearer, Claude Elkin, S. J. Tucker, S. H. Rutledge, W. F. Ragland, Lewis Holliday, W. H. Greening, J. C. Booth, Grant W. A. P. W. May, M. L. Tapp, Clayton Hise, B. B. Fox, War Wills, Kelley Duncan, Wallace Woods, John McCormick and Eli Bean.

STRIKE INJUNCTION CONTINUED TEN DAYS

Chicago, Sept. 12—The temporary restraining order granted the government September 1 against the striking railroad shop crafts and their leaders Monday night was continued in effect for not to exceed ten days. The original order would have expired at midnight.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson ordered the continuance on the government's motion at the close of the first day's hearing on the petition of the attorney general for a temporary injunction to replace it. The continuance, the court stipulated, will terminate upon the decision in the injunction hearing.

As a result of the continuance the injunction hearing will be halted while attorneys for B. M. Jewell, president, and John Scott, secretary-treasurer, of the federated shop crafts, argue for a modification of its drastic penalties.

Jewell and Scott were the only two of the more than 240 strike leaders and 200,000 strikers affected by the restraining order represented in court by counsel. They lost the first battle when the court denied their motion that the government's petition be dismissed.

The necessity of impressing upon the people of Madison the importance of voting this special tax if any considerable road improvement work is to be done in this county with the benefit of state-aid funds, is said to have been felt by the members of the committee. TARIFF BILL IS SENT TO HOUSE

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Sept. 12—The administration tariff bill as finally perfected was presented today in the House and will be called up tomorrow with the expectation it will be disposed of not later than Thursday. Then it will go to the Senate, but because of opposition to the dye embargo and other provisions it may be delayed a week or more. As now framed it is estimated it will produce $400,000,000 revenue. Experts say the rates are slightly below the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill and considerably above those of the Underwood bill which is now in force. The bill will become effective immediately upon the signature of the president. It is designed, its framers said, particularly to protect American industries from the low cost of German industries and countries carved out of Austria-Hungary.

IRVINE BULLOCK CASE DROPPED

County Attorney Chenault Says Evidence Is Not Sufficient For Conviction

The warrant against Irvine Bullock, of Rockcastle county, who is alleged to have secured state teachers' examination questions and brought them to Richmond last June, has been dismissed by County Judge John D. Goodloe on a motion of County Attorney J. P. Chenault. The reason for this action is that no evidence could be found which would be sufficient to convict Bullock. L. W. Bethurum, Rockcastle attorney, was in this city with Bullock Saturday when the action was taken. Bullock, who was a teacher and examiner in the office of Mrs. Alice Davis, county superintendent of Rockcastle, was thought by officials to have secured the questions sent to that office by the state and sent them here to Harold Jones, at that time a student in Eastern Normal, to be worked out. It is alleged that Jones then sold them to several students at the Normal school. When Bullock turned himself over to authorities it was thought that the whole matter would be cleared up at once, but nothing could be proved on Bullock which would cause his conviction. Harold Jones will appear before the October grand jury on the charge of selling the questions.

OLD MADISON BANK CHANGES ITS TITLE

Enlarges its Capacities Under Name Of Madison National Bank & Trust Co.

The Madison National Bank, by authority from the Comptroller of the Currency at Washington and the unanimous vote of its stockholders, changed its name to that of the Madison National Bank & Trust Company on Saturday, Sept. 9th.

The Madison National Bank was organized and began business March 1, 1871. Its first president was Dr. Thos. S. Moberley. Its first cashier was Silas T. Green. Among the original stockholders were such men as David A. and Thos. D. Chenault, John A. Duncan, Alexander Tribble, Nathan Moran, Samuel and James Bennett, Thos. S. and C. J. Branton, James B. McCreary, R. J. White, Benjamin Briggs and George DeJarnett.

These men represented not only wealth, but the very highest type of the citizenship of Madison county. All of them have passed away but the foundation laid by them was both sure and steadfast.

For more than 50 years the old Madison National Bank has lived and has been a tower of strength financially in this county. It has weathered every storm and panic during all these years and never has its solidity been questioned once. It has ever been liberal and progressive in its policy, extending aid to every worthy enterprise in the county and help to hundreds of young men, struggling for a start in life.

It has divided among its stockholders nearly a million dollars in dividends and still has a surplus of more than 50 per cent of its capital. It is owned and controlled today largely by the descendants of those who organized the bank.

The present management tries in every way to follow the course mapped out by its founders. Its purpose is to be liberal and yet conservative; to grant every accommodation consistent with sound banking principles; to extend courtesy to all of its patrons and security to all who entrust their funds to its keeping. Under the change in its title, it has acquired the right to act in every fiduciary capacity granted by the state of Kentucky and still remain under the supervision of the national banking act. It now offers its services to the public in this new capacity.
